ABSTRACT

Disclosed herein are systems and methods for combining valuations of multiple evaluators. One disclosed method embodiment comprises (for each evaluator): sorting the choices into an order indicative of preference; determining interval sizes between adjacent choices; obtaining a rank for each interval size; and using interval size ranks to determine an evaluator score for each choice. The evaluator scores can be combined to determine an overall score for each choice.